Virginia Performs: Virginia's Performance
Leadership and Accountability System

Jane N. Kusiak,
Executive Director

April 18, 2009

Virginia Received a Top Score (A-) in the “Grading the States 2008” Report

The Government Performance Project’s Assessment included an ‘A’ for Information, including Strategic Direction and Managing and Budgeting for Performance

“Virginia is reaping the management and budgeting results of a comprehensive information gathering process. ...results are discussed in the contexts of current performance levels, historic performance levels and facts that affect Commonwealth-wide performance – and all are linked to measures and agency programmatic and management performance.”

- A focus on outcomes and measurable results is leading to new ways of looking at programmatic and budget decision-making.
- With resources diminishing relative to need, agency leaders will need to accelerate change and become more customer- and results-driven. New productivity measures are strengthening the relationship between internal improvement investments and desired outcomes.

Agenda

Introduction to the Council on Virginia's Future

Virginia Performs: Virginia's Performance Leadership and Accountability System

Educational Attainment in Virginia

Concluding Remarks

Council on Virginia's Future: A Public-Private Vehicle for Virginia's Long-Term Governance

Origin

- The Council was established to serve as an advisory board to the Governor and the General Assembly.
- It is a forum where legislative, executive branch, and community leaders come together for work that transcends election cycles, partisanship, limited organizational boundaries, and short-term thinking.

Purpose

- Provide long-term focus on high priority issues.
- Create an environment for improved policy and budget decision-making.
- Increase government accountability, operations, and performance.
- Inform citizens about performance and engage them in dialogue about Virginia's future.

Measuring What Matters

Hampton Roads Performs Debuts
Hampton Roads Performs is a new performance site that focuses on the Hampton Roads region of Virginia. A collaborative project between the Council on Virginia's Future and the Hampton Roads Partnership, the site shows how well the region is doing on a broad array of indicators; many of these measures are aligned with Virginia Performs, while others are unique to the region. State Agencies Take Aim at Productivity
Starting in 2009, state agencies will be adding a new type of goal to their strategic planning and performance measures: productivity. Virginia Performs productivity measures will be tied to a key process -- one that produces an agency's most important service or product and that has a significant impact on customers, budgets, or performance outcomes. Examples of these new productivity measures include:

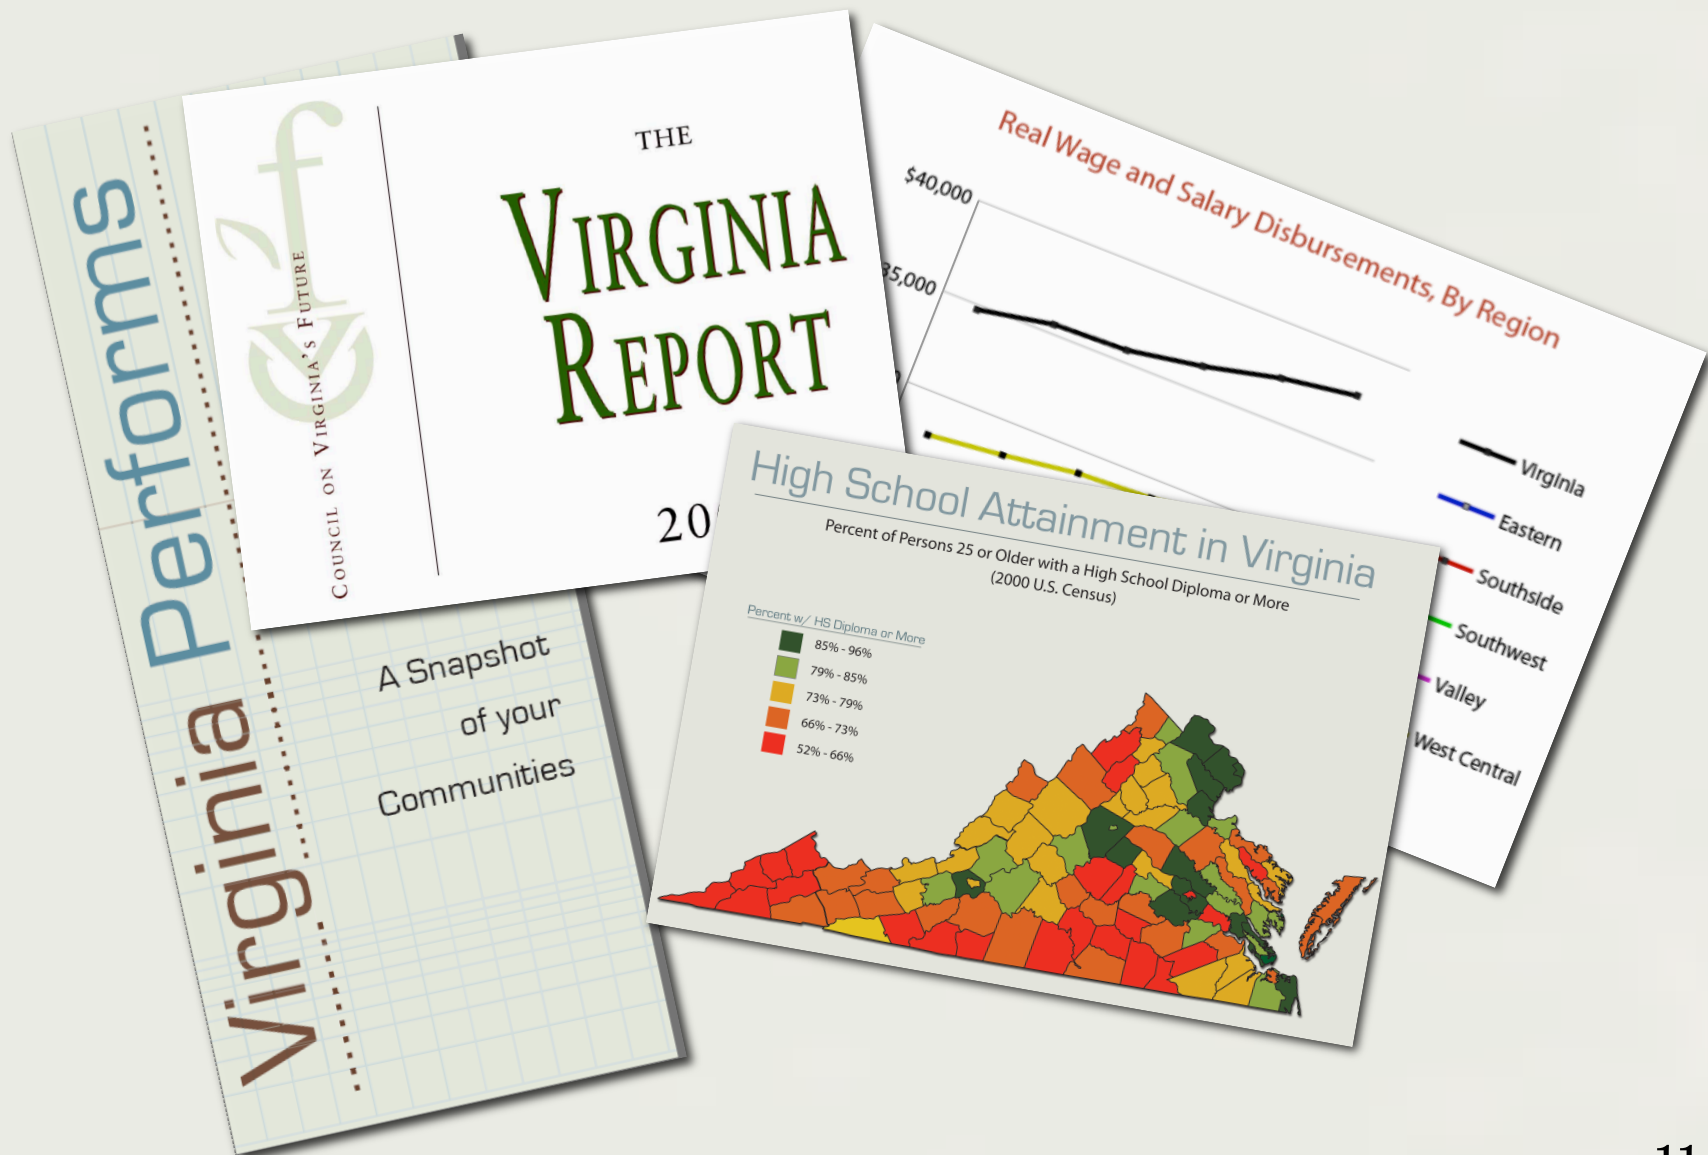

A message from Virginia Governor Tim Kaine:

The Commonwealth of Virginia is a spectacular place to live. We treasure the heritage and resources that contribute to our high quality of life, but it takes constant planning and fine tuning to maintain this quality and make needed improvements.

This website, brought to you by the Council on Virginia's Future, shows you how we measure the state's performance, plan for the future and monitor our progress. Explore the links above to see how we're working to make Virginia strong and healthy. Thanks for visiting.

Measuring the Quality of Life in Virginia's Hampton Roads

Hampton Roads is a vibrant region for people to live, work, and visit. People in the region are unified by a common desire to improve their quality of life through ever-greater economic opportunities and an outstanding environment.

Hampton Roads Performs tracks our progress and provides insight into those aspects of life that will ensure the region's competitive position in the global economy. See how the region is doing overall on the Hampton Roads Scorecard. And explore the 7 quality-of-life categories above (Economy, Education, etc.) to see how Hampton Roads compares to other regions of Virginia and to metropolitan areas outside the state.

Measuring Up in Hampton Roads

Getting Down to the ABC's

In order to fully benefit from instruction, children must come to kindergarten with many basic skills already established. In Fall 2007, almost 14% of kindergarten students in Hampton Roads were identified as needing extra help with literacy fundamentals. A working group is now exploring what data is available to track and make progress in those areas that help children, families, and communities "get ready" for school.

Check out the Hampton Roads Scorecard

What is Hampton Roads?

- Southeastern corner of Virginia
- Population exceeding 1.6 million
- America's largest natural deepwater harbor
- More than 90,000 students enrolled in 8 colleges/universities and 3 community colleges

2006

- Agency key objectives and metrics focus on core missions and critical priorities.

2007

- Aligned key measures with societal indicators; linked budget decisions to performance.
- Launched Virginia Performs.
- Launched the Productivity Investment Fund.

Highlights in the Evolution of the System

2008

- Developed new productivity and administrative measures.
- Expanded the use of performance metrics in budget decision-making.
- Launched Hampton Roads Performs.
- Virginia received a top score in the 2008 Grading the States Report:
 - As noted in the recent Pew Center on the States article, Trade-off Time, Virginia made effective use of performance data in making critical decisions – both targeted cuts and strategic investments – for its current budget.
- A third round of awards were made from the Productivity Investment Fund.

2009

- Continue integration of performance reporting with expenditures for key budgetary and programmatic initiatives.
- Enhance the state's partnership with the Pew Center on the States.
- Publish annual agency strategic reports to provide an integrated view of performance issues and opportunities for improvement.
- Initiate a special emphasis on educational attainment.

Educational Attainment in Virginia

Educational Attainment Initiative

Background

The Council has long emphasized the critical link between educational outcomes and long-term economic competitiveness.

- Educational attainment is a proven path to better economic status.
- Virginia's high school graduation rate is above the national average but has remained relatively constant over the last 10 years.
- Virginia high school graduation rates remain below 80 percent in some regions and below 60 percent in some localities.
- Virginia had the 23rd highest rate among the states for the percent of its adult population in 2007 without a high school diploma or equivalent, but ranked fourth in the nation for the most master's degrees (9.8 percent), fifth for the most professional degrees (2.4 percent), and fourth for doctorates (1.5 percent) as a percent of the population age 25 and over.
- Virginia's rank among the top states in the percentage of adults with advanced degrees is due in part to its success in attracting well-educated residents (including immigrants) to the state.

Concluding Remarks

Concluding Remarks

- Key themes for performance leadership:
 - Put results first: Public investment decisions should be clearly tied to meaningful societal goals and evaluated through a focus on outcomes.
 - Openly assess progress: Emphasize transparency in operations and promote accountability.
 - Encourage positive change: Provide the right tools and incentives to promote innovation and productivity improvement.
- Next Steps
 - Focus on a critical long-term goal: Educational Attainment
 - Continue to integrate performance reporting with expenditures for key budgetary and programmatic initiatives.
